

Guardian Nurses Named a 2025 Top Workplace by The Philadelphia Inquirer

Guardian Nurses Healthcare Advocates, Inc. has been recognized with a 2025 Top Workplaces award by The Philadelphia Inquirer. The honor is based solely on employee feedback gathered through a third-party survey administered by employee engagement technology partner Energage, LLC. The confidential survey measures key aspects of workplace culture, including feeling Respected & Supported, Enabled to Grow, and Empowered to Execute.

"As a long-time partner of Guardian Nurses, I am not surprised Betty and her team received this honor," added Joe DiBella, Executive Partner, National Employee Benefits Practice Leader at Conner Strong & Buckelew. "The culture is one where the nurses will run through walls for each other and the patients they serve. That's the Guardian Nurses difference."

"In a time when working in healthcare can feel especially heavy, being named a Top Workplace is a reminder of the strength and heart our team brings every day," said Betty Long, RN, MHA, President & CEO of Guardian Nurses Healthcare Advocates. "We support one another, stay grounded in compassion and integrity, and never lose sight of why we do this work. I'm beyond proud to be part of this team."

Founded in 2003, Guardian Nurses Healthcare Advocates is a nurse-led organization dedicated to improving the healthcare experience for patients and their families. Through expert clinical advocacy, care coordination, and compassionate support, Guardian Nurses helps individuals navigate complex healthcare systems, make informed decisions, and receive the care they need. With a team of experienced registered nurses, the organization serves employers, unions, and individuals across the country—delivering peace of mind when it matters most.
